

TO SPEAK.
[SPECIAL MESSAGE TO THE GUESTS.]
Haverford, Pa., Oct. 12.—Two days of celebration began this afternoon at Haverford College in honor of the completion of its seventy-five years of existence. It was founded in 1833 and was the pioneer of Quaker educational institutions in the United States. Among the graduates are numbered hundreds of men who have distinguished themselves in the professions, in commercial life and in the domain of public affairs. Among the prominent educators from other colleges who are participating in the anniversary exercises are President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university, George Wharton Pepper of the university of Pennsylvania and Prof. Theodore W. Richards of Harvard university.

ILLINOIS CANDIDATE ONCE LOCAL LAWYER

William Street of Austin Running for State's Attorney on Prohibition Ticket.

William Street of Austin, Ill., who is running for state's attorney in Illinois, practiced law in Janesville during the early eighties. Mr. Street was in partnership with Wilson Lane and is remembered by all the older lawyers here.

Under a cut of Mr. Street the Chicago Tribune today speaks as follows:

"Aside from Eugene Chaffin, candidate for president, the prohibitionist nominee who is receiving most attention in Chicago is William Street, candidate for state's attorney."

"Mr. Street is running on a platform which represents more closely the views of John J. Healy, the present state's attorney, than those of either of his opponents. John E. W. Wayman, the republican candidate, and Jacob J. Kern, the democratic nominee, have promised not to enforce the Sunday closing law against saloons. Mr. Street proposes to prosecute saloonkeepers for violation of the law, and he is gaining the support of many of the reformers, who would have voted for Healy if he had been nominated."

"Mr. Street is a Scotchman by birth, but has lived in this country since he was 6 years old. He was educated at the University of Wisconsin and began practicing law at Waukegan, Wis., in 1875. As the partner of D. H. Sumner, district attorney of Waukegan county, Mr. Street prosecuted many criminal cases. He was a member of the Waukegan city council in 1880, and later city treasurer of Down, Kan. He has practiced law in Chicago since 1889. He resides at 325 South Franklin avenue, Austin."

EDGERTON MAN IS GRANTED PATENT

J. M. Johnson Has Patented a Folding Packing Case for Tobacco.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, Oct. 16.—Jacob Melvin Johnson has been granted a patent on his folding packing case which he has been working on for the past year. The box is designed for packing tobacco or any other article where it is desired to preserve the case for use again. Owing to the advanced price of lumber it will be a great saving. Mr. Johnson's many friends here congratulate him on his success. The box ought to find ready sale on account of its economy.

"The Way of a Woman" was presented at Royal hall last evening to a fair sized audience. It is by far the best show seen here this season. Every part was well taken and the scenic effects were very good.

A steam heating plant is being installed in Royal hall. This is a long felt want and will be very much appreciated by the patrons of the hall. Melvin Johnson and his mother, Mrs. J. A. Johnson, and sister, Mrs. Elmer Will of Chicago, attended the wedding of Miss Edna Swanson and F. J. Mayer at Madison Wednesday.

The third number in the contest of the Royal Neighbors was given at the Woodman hall Wednesday evening. The husbands and a number of outside friends were invited. The program consisted of select readings, vocal and instrumental music and concluded with a haughty force out of the "A. Parliament of Servants," which kept the audience in a roar of laughter from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The stage settings and costumes were all appropriate and the characters well portrayed. The hall was well filled and all seemed to enjoy the evening's entertainment. At the close coffee, cake and doughnuts were served and a social time was enjoyed by all present.

John Madden has purchased the John Hayden residence and is now moving into the same.

The ladies of the M. E. church are holding a rummage sale in the vacant room over Fred Campbell's harness shop.

Another business change has taken place this week. L. N. Pomeroy's paint and paper store has been sold to Kel-Jing & Kaufman. The former comes from Johnson Creek, and the latter is Edward Kaufman of this city. Both are young men and deserving of patronage.

Scott Hatch returned last evening from a five weeks' visit at his old home in Bethel, Vt., and other points of interest in the east.

James Holke and wife left Wednesday for Long Beach, Calif. They expect to pass the winter on the Pacific coast.

Mrs. Ann Hall and Mrs. Wardell left Thursday morning for Los Angeles and other points on the Pacific coast. They expect to be gone all winter.

The high scores were made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry McNamara. Delicious refreshments were served at tables decorated with clusters of pink carnations and a brief musical program included several duets by the Misses Josephine Trent and Beulah Birch which were greatly enjoyed. Miss Rose Rucker of Dakota and Kramer Doty of San Francisco were among the out-of-town guests.

GOLDEN WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED TUESDAY

Today at the home of Cornelius Wilcox, 5 Bennett street, will be held a gathering of the clan in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox. At this meeting there will be present all of the children that are living, and all of the old neighbors in La Prairie and Johnston and the neighbors at their present home. Mrs. C. O. Weaver, a sister of Mr. Wilcox, aged 91, will also be present. For some time past the children of Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox have been planning on having a celebration and within the last few days have been busy with the preparations, which, as much as was possible, were

MR. CORNELIUS WILCOX

Mr. Wilcox was born in Watertown, Jefferson county, June 1, 1832, and Mrs. Wilcox in Oswego county, June 26, 1842. ## BEAT OUT THE TAILOR BILL

How to Get a Suit Equal to Made-to-Measure Clothes at Half Their Price at REHBERG'S

That good ready-to-wear clothing such as Hirsh Wickwire is striking consternation in the camps of the custom tailor is evidenced by the fact that in a certain large city not far from here the tailors have formed a pool for advertising purposes to proclaim against the inroads on their trade from the best ready-to-wear clothing. These tailors may well feel alarmed—the time is fast passing when the average good dresser will pay double price for made to measure clothes which in every point are equaled by Hirsh Wickwire clothes

Here are indisputable facts which we stand ready to back up fully. Hirsh-Wickwire Suits and Overcoats are made in a big establishment where nothing but hand work touches any of the garments. The facings, button holes, flaps, all hand finished. Coat, pant and vest makers work on the goods same as they do in the made-to-measure shops. Cloth materials are pure all wool, not a thread of cotton in them. This we guarantee. They are pure wools and velvet cashmeres. The reason for their perfect fitting qualities lies in the shape retaining features and the collar fitting ideas known only to Hirsh-Wickwire manufacturers. The shape on these clothes are guaranteed to hold as long as the cloth hangs together and you cannot wear out a garment in three years' time. Suits are conservative in style, 2 and 3 button coats, browns, tans, gun metal gray, famous mouse colors, blues and black, prices $20 to $30.

Overcoats are these new loose fitting models in all the new shades, 40-in. length, the kind that look the part of the made-to-measure at half price, $20 to $35.

This new type of aircraft depends for its lifting power upon a number of small vertical propellers, which as the speed increases, lift the entire aircraft off the ground. The propellers are set at an angle lifting toward the front so that combined with the lifting power, they carry the machine along in a diagonal course. By means of the levers the operator can cut out certain of the propellers and thereby equalize the lifting power with the force of gravity. When a certain long from front to rear. There are 20 four-bladed wooden propellers four feet in diameter and having a two-foot pitch. The propellers are connected with the drive gear by means of small wire ropes. Daffodil Poisoning.

A large number of plants which are usually looked upon as harmless possess poisonous properties, says the Dundee Advertiser. Those who are employed in picking daffodils and narcissus frequently suffer severely from a troublesome skin affection known as "daffodil poisoning." The most trying feature of this ailment is the small gatherings which form under the finger nails. It is said that minute crystals of lime exist in large numbers in the juice of the stems of the pretty blooms and that these are responsible for the poisoning. Regular daffodil pickers are accustomed to rub their hands with oil and work tallow in underneath their finger nails before beginning their work. The bulbs of the white round hyacinth have similar unpleasant properties.

contingency remaining represents the strength of socialism in this land where it has no right to exist.

The largest shipbuilding yard in the world is located in Germany. It employs thousands of men and the present management has been in control for many years, but has at last become discouraged because of the long-continued antagonistic attitude of organized labor, which in that country is badly fractured with socialism.

The men were called together, a few days ago, to consider a proposition which so startled them that they have not yet recovered from the shock. They were told that the management, owing to strikes and discontent, had decided to retire from the business, and rather than close it out, would sell it to them on easy terms, and they could conduct it to suit themselves.

The unions represented had in their treasury a liberal amount of money, and were able to finance the business with the aid of the shipbuilding company. The men were given six weeks to consider the matter and perfect their plans, but they went away appalled at the outlook, realizing for the first time the meaning of responsibility. It is safe to assume that if the business is continued, it will be under the old management.

Two or three years ago, a small manufacturer in Cleveland sold his plant to his workmen, 33 in number, and they all became stockholders. At the end of a year 20 of them had sold out, and the other three, who had attempted to manage the business, were glad to retire, and turn it back to the old owner.

These are conditions which the socialist never takes into account. With the accumulation of property comes responsibility, and if the accumulation comes as a windfall, it usually vanishes like the morning dew. Money which comes without effort is a curse while it lasts, and leaves the recipient in every way poorer than before.

TWO STREAMS

"At this golden hour when is pouring into the markets of the United States and Canada at the rate of a million bushels for each business day of the week," says the Wall Street Journal, "this means a round million dollars to the credit of those who grow it, and of the railroads which move it to points of accumulation."

"It does not take much imagination to see the stream of wheat flow in, but at the same time there is a stream of dollars flowing out. It may not be in the form of bank bills or silver or gold, it is more likely to be in merchandise or some other equivalent of the wheat that has found its way into terminals awaiting the call of the world to find its best market."

"Thus the two currents of commodities and cash or credit flow on until the surplus products of labor are gone where they are most needed, and the satisfaction of human wants is met to the extent of the exchangeable wealth. From now until the turn of the year the tide is likely to rise rather than fall. The climax comes when from the purchase of necessities the people turn to that season of the giving of gifts which is in itself an expression of the liberality of our popular life."

Published contributions to the Bryan campaign fund show that about $250,000 has been donated. Wisconsin democrats have invested $1,400 in expressing their enthusiasm, but a much larger amount in hot air. It is surprising what $1,400 and good lungs will do for a campaign.

The uniform bill of lading goes into effect November 1st, and will be generally adopted by all railroads. It is expected to save litigation and trouble for both shippers and transportation companies.

Nine thousand tons of walnuts represent the California crop this year, and this is simply a by-product of the Golden state.

Statistics show that 150,000 men are employed in making boots and shoes. The annual output is 350,000,000 pairs.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

GET OUT INTO THE OPEN.

You are simply tired out—physically, mentally, if not morally.

Do you know why?

Because you have disobeyed the laws of your nature. You have been living an artificial, not a natural, life.

God made the country and man made the town. There is life in what God makes. There is no life in what man makes. There is no life in the town. LIFE IS OUT OF DOORS. Only in the open can you find the renewal of the forces of life.

You belong to Nature. She nursed you. She will keep you. But you are always playing truant to her.

Get out into the open.

You are brother to the rock, the soil, the air, the swarming world. All these obey the law. You only of all things are disobedient to the law. Is it strange, then, that, being out of harmony, you should lose your balance?

Get out into the open.

How, for instance, can you hope to remove the spent forces of electric vitality from the electric forces in the soil when your bare foot never touches the soil? The soil wants to help you, but cannot.

Get out into the open.

Man was made to live out of doors. He chooses slow suicide by shutting himself up in a house. He was made to touch the soil, to press the vitalizing currents of the wind, to feel the soothing fall of rain, the press of waters on his bare breast. He was made so that he could restore his vital forces by familiar contact with the elemental forces. He turns away and refuses the office of these forces. He becomes a slave to the artificial things.

Get out into the open.

If only for one hour each day, get out into the open spaces. The touch of primal life will put the thrill of new life into your veins. Feel the shine of the sun in its life giving warmth, the air that is wine to your lungs, the soil that is electric. Get out of the town stifles. Pull yourself out of your self made lassitude.

Get out into the open.

You are one of Nature's prodigal sons. You are trying to live on the husks the swine would disdain. Arise and go back home where there is plenty and to spare.

Get out into the open!

What He Needed.

The Leavenworth Times says that a young society man went into a Leavenworth clothing store recently and asked to look at legging. "I want something to cover the whole calf," he remarked. "Hadden't you better buy a whole suit of clothes?" said the merchant, suggestively.

WAS THE OTHER'S SUCCESSOR.

Little Negro's Explanation Certainly Bore Aspect of Truth.

Irvin Cobb tells a story of a little, weary negro who went into a resort in Natchez, displayed a large roll of bills and bought a drink.

As he was paying for it another negro came in, very large and very black. He looked at the little man and said: "Niggah, whar you git all dat money?"

"Huh-tendah," said the little negro, by way of a reply, "Ah think Ah shall tek a bottle of dat-ah stuff. 'Pears quite satisfyin' tuh me."

"Niggah," roared the big one, "whar you git dat money? I ast you. 'T's the town bully, I is. I follow bullyin' foh a trade. Whar you git it?"

The little negro began stuffing the money back into his pockets. "Seems to me," he mused, "I ain't got 'nuff pockets to hold all mah wealth."

"The big negro jumped at the little one. 'Your hear what I said?' he demanded. 'T's the town bully, an' I wantah know whar you git all dat money?'"

Quick as a flash, the little negro up-percut the big one, catching him on the point of the jaw and knocking him down. In a moment the big negro revived enough to look up from the floor and ask humbly: "Niggah, whar is you, anyhow?"

"Why," replied the little one, blowing his knuckles, "T's th' pussion you thought you wuz when you come in."

KNOW YOUR DENTIST

Do not let your teeth go until they ache. Aching teeth is a natural way of telling you that the teeth are almost beyond repair. A tooth will not ache until it is pretty near ready for the grave yard. Drop in next time you go past, and let me tell you how indispensable your teeth are to you and their importance to your health. I'll examine your teeth if you wish and tell you what it will cost to have them put in perfect order. You need not feel under obligations to have the work done at once. Come in, and talk it over. Your work won't cost more than it's worth if you let me do it, and that means a saving of 25 to 50 per cent.

BEST MAN TO MARRY

Nab Round Faced Kind, Advises Chicago Physician.

CAPTURE HIM ON THE SPOT.

Dr. Bernauer Advocates Right of Women to Propose Marriage—Tells Men How to Keep Love They Win—Regards Trial Weddings as Degrading.

"Beware of drawing a 'love blank' in the matrimonial lottery. Some men are born devoid of the ability to love. 'Marry a man who is well developed an inch and a half behind the ears, where the physiologist 'five bump' is located. Feel his head if necessary. 'Look out for the man broad behind the ears and full under the eyes. He makes a quarrelsome husband. 'Have a care about tying up with a muscular man of highly nervous temperament. He is apt to turn out a brute after marriage. 'Think twice before marrying a highly spiritual man. He is apt to become melancholy and take to drink. 'But if you find a round faced man nab him on the spot. Round faced men make the best husbands."

This was the practical advice given to Chicago women by Dr. Julius Bernauer in a lecture on "Love and Affinity" before the Psycho-Physiological society the other night, says a Chicago special dispatch to the New York World.

"In husbands the right man is more important than the right age," said Dr. Bernauer. "The right man is honest, clear minded, industrious, ambitious, sober, affectionate and not less than twenty-five years old. 'The average man when he casts about for a wife is not hunting a cook, washerwoman or housemaid. 'He doesn't care for a toy, a slave or a drudge. He wants—just a woman. The American man is a practical lover and a helpful optimist. Women should cultivate good nature. It brings happiness and health. Bad health and constant complaining open all the doors and windows through which love departs. Cultured, optimistic women are the nation's best assets."

Here is some advice Dr. Bernauer gave to men to enable them to hold a woman when they have won her: "Don't hang around the kitchen. 'Don't criticize your wife's domestic arrangements or her cooking. 'Share all your pleasures with her. 'Don't correct her in the presence of others. 'Court her as your wife as assiduously as you courted her as your sweetheart."

"Kiss her every morning when you go to work. 'Tell her she is pretty. 'Keep her love fresh, and she will break her neck to please you. Dr. Bernauer called bachelors cowards. He advocated the right of women to propose to the men they love. "The new girl will not trust her happiness to traditions that have forced her to seal her lips upon her love," remarked Dr. Bernauer. "The justice of the coming generation will release her from this convention. She will be honest with herself. Her love will make its own declaration. The new man will accept her proposal as a tribute to his manhood."

Dr. Bernauer said woman's most fascinating age was between twenty-five and forty. Investigation, he said, showed that the happiest marriages resulted when the brides were between these ages. Trial marriages, he said, were degrading to women, ruinous to the home and a menace to any nation. He denounced the so called "affinity" of the married man or married woman. "The only proper affinity," said Dr. Bernauer, "is one before marriage or one which makes two persons happy without making a third miserable."

ANTI-GROUCH CLUB.

Cleveland Girls to Wage War on All Brands of Grumpiness.

Banded together to wage successful warfare on all brands of grumpiness and grouches, there's a crowd of young women in an office of one of the big factories in Cleveland, O., who say they have a solemn duty to perform, but go about it in anything but a solemn manner, says a Cleveland correspondent of the Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

"There was so much general crankiness all around," explained Miss Margaret Eklund, president, "that this crusade just had to come. 'Like charity, we are going to begin at home," she said. 'We've pledged a solemn vow to pound no more typewriters to frazzles as a means of venting our inward wrath. Neither are we going to snap off people's heads over the telephone. Then there are a whole lot of other things that we have sworn off doing."

The Eagle in a New Role. Rocky Mountain Shorty, who operates a string of traps on Hoodoo creek, in Wyoming, is the latest candidate for denunciation as a nature faker by the president, says a Milwaukee (Wyo.) correspondent of the Denver News. Shorty asserts that as he was carrying home a rabbit, caught in one of his traps, a large eagle swooped down from behind him and seized the rabbit in its talons. The tremendous jerk the bird gave the rabbit so startled Shorty he dropped the game and uttered a yell. The hawk caught the eagle to drop the rabbit, and bunny promptly took to his legs and crept. The eagle alighted on a nearby tree, and Shorty, enraged at the gall of the bird, shot it with his rifle.

Science and Invention

SENSATION FOR CHILDREN

Jumping Boards, Which Are Worn on Shoes, Similar to Skates.

The children will glad to hear of an ingenious device recently patented by a Texas man, and shown in the illustration below. It is designed to become as popular as the roller skates in the new future, and once introduced its use will doubt be universal. It consists of miniature springing boards, which are strapped to the shoes. A slight depression of the foot causes the winter to spring forward; the harder the depression the longer the jump. The inventor claims that a person equipped with the spring boards can travel faster than another person running, and can little effort or exertion is required to cause momentum. They are in every way safe for young children, as there is no danger of the child falling or of the device becoming unmanageable, as with roller skates. They will undoubtedly prove to be a great amusement for youngsters, both boys and girls, and we may soon look for streets full of little jumping jacks. They will also be used by acrobats instead of the springing board now usually employed.

REFRIGERATOR WITHOUT ICE

Drops Into an Opening Below the Surface of the Ground.

A refrigerator which keeps food and meats at a desirable temperature wholly without the use of ice or any recognized refrigerant, and which has been recently introduced to the housekeepers of the country. The device consists of a circular receptacle made of galvanized sheet steel fitted with a vertical sliding door of the same material and provided with a handle and convenient mechanism for lowering and raising in and out of a well, cistern, cistern or a special hole dug in the ground in a convenient place. This mechanism consists of a hatch lever by means of which is driven a gear, meshing with a smaller gear attached to a galvanized steel cable, the lower end of which is fastened to the bottom of the refrigerator. By working the lever backward and forward the refrigerator is raised above the floor and by pressing the handle to one side a friction brake is applied, lowering it again as slowly or rapidly as desired. While the hole may be made as deep as desired, it is unnecessary to go further than eight feet, as at that depth a temperature of from 10 to 15 degrees may be maintained, which is sufficient to keep most articles in a good condition for a reasonable length of time.

MEDICINAL HEATING LAMP

Far Superior to Hot-water Bottle, as It Never Leaks.

Electricity now plays an important part in the practice of medicine, one of its most useful applications being the concentration of powerful heat and light rays upon the affected parts. A new heating device of this nature has been patented by an Iowa man, two views of which are shown in the accompanying illustration. The heater consists of a handoperated reflector containing an electric incandescent lamp, the edges of the reflector being covered by a soft pad which protects the body from the hot metal shell, the lamp being protected by a wire mesh. In the application of the heater the reflector shell is pressed over the part where local application of heat is desired. As no heat can escape, the interior of the reflector soon becomes as hot as can comfortably be borne. The apparatus is always ready for instant application, being much superior to a hot water bottle, as it never leaks.

FOR LOCKING MILK BOTTLE

Prevents Mornings' Milk Being Stolen by Vagrants or Others.

Every city and town is infested with the vagrants who steal the milk supply. Every householder has experienced the nuisance of finding that the milk for breakfast has disappeared and that another supply must be obtained from the corner grocery. This could not happen if the simple device for locking the milk bottle shown here had been used. It consists of a bracket, which is attached to any suitable support on the porch, or adjacent to the doorway, where it can readily be reached by the milkman. On the lower part of the bracket is a socket to receive the bottom of the bottle. At the top is a sliding rod supporting a bolt-shaped cap, the latter suspended on the curved portion of the rod. This cap is adapted to be depressed over the mouth of the milk bottle, and is held in this position by a spring lock, the operation being exactly similar to that employed to clamp a padlock. An ordinary key is used to release the cap, when it is desired to remove the bottle of milk. When depressing the milk in the early hours of the morning, the milkman locks the bottle in the holder, where it remains until removed by someone possessing the necessary key.

CHILD EVINCED REAL HEROISM.

Pathetically Brave in Hour That Brings Terror to Us All.

A pathetic story of a child's heroism is told by a Dublin gentleman. Recently he proposed to drive with his wife to the beautiful Glasnevin cemetery. Calling his son, a bright little boy, some four years old, he told him to get ready to accompany them. The child's countenance fell and the father said:

"Don't you want to go, Willie?"

The little lip quivered, but the child answered, "Yes, papa, if you wish."

The child was strangely silent during the drive, and when the carriage drove up to the entrance he clung to his mother's side and looked up in her face with pathetic wistfulness.

The party alighted, and walked among the graves and along the tree-shadowed avenues, looking at the inscriptions on the last resting-places of the dwellers in the beautiful city of the dead. After an hour or so thus spent, they returned to the carriage, and the father lifted his little son to his seat. The child looked surprised, drew a breath of relief and asked:

"Why, am I going back with you?"

"Of course you are; why not?"

"I thought when they took little boys to the cemetery they left them there," said the child.

Many a man does not show the heroism in the face of death that this child evinced in what, to him, had evidently been a summons to leave the world.

HOW THE PYRAMIDS WERE BUILT

Theory That Explains Expenditure of Time and Labor.

No one has been able to decide how the enormous stones in the pyramids were handled; for, even allowing for the vast army of men, some sort of mechanical contrivance must have been used.

One theory is that as each course of stone was laid a sand embankment was built around it with long, easy slopes so that the stones for the next course could be pushed on rollers and slid into place, without any actual lifting, and so on, the pyramid being in fact buried as fast as it was built, until the top was reached, when the stupendous job of removing the sand embankment was commenced.

This might account for the vast army of laborers used; for instance, it is said that in building the great pyramid of Cheops 100,000 men were employed for 30 years, although the quarry from which the stone was obtained was nearly 2,000 feet from the pyramid.—Engineering Magazine.

The Tender-Hearted Tar.

A seaman in our navy, fresh from the long battleship cruise, entered a bank in San Diego, hailing the teller holistically as follows:

"Hello, matey! How's business?"

"Business isn't any too brisk," replied the teller, indolently, "but may be I'll pick up. What can I do for you?"

The jacky produced a check for $30, payable to bearer.

"How will you have it?" asked the teller.

The genial seaman hesitated a moment, and then replied:

"Matey, seein' that business ain't so good, I won't be hard on you. Gimme ten dollars now, an' I'll take the rest at ten a month."—Success Magazine.

The True Artist.

A good-natured Washingtonian while waiting on a corner for his street car recently was attracted by the bright face of a young Italian who was grinding his piano near by.

"It must be rather difficult to turn that crank as steadily as you do and keep such good time," observed the Washingtonian as he dropped a nickel in the hat.

"Not so difficult," said the Italian, showing his white teeth in a smile.

"You see, I no gotta da monk. 'To turn da crank does very steady 'keepu da tin'. But turnu da cranku an' watchu da monk sam' tin', ah! that takes da artiest, da true artiest. Get one six monk, signor, that demands da genius!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Gold in the Ruby Glass.

Genuine ruby glass is expensive because it is prepared with gold. It owes its color to the presence throughout its mass of particles of gold too small to be seen with the microscope.

Only the ultramicroscope, which renders visible objects perceptible by means of their diffusion of light, is able to show the existence of these minute particles. With the ordinary microscope the glass appears as a uniform transparent mass, but the ultramicroscope shows that it is filled with points of light resembling stars on a black background. These points indicate the presence of the particles of gold to which color of the glass is due.—Youth's Companion.

Hopeful.

"I understand your wife has joined the suffragettes?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton; "and I'm glad of it."

"Then you approve of the suffragettes?"

"No. One of these days they'll do something that Henrietta disapproves of, and then she'll give them the talking to that they deserve."—Washington Star.

FOREST FIRES BREAK OUT

RAGING IN NORTH MICHIGAN
WITH RENEWED FURY.Town of Metz Destroyed and Others
Afflicted—"Sawdust Mountain" at Cheboygan is Burning.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16.—Specials to the Free Press from many points through northern Michigan show that forest fires have broken out again with renewed fury. From Millersburg in Presque Isle county comes word that the town of Metz was wiped out by fire Thursday afternoon, with losses aggregating nearly $30,000. Telegraphic communication with Millersburg was broken in the middle of the dispatch.

From Cheboygan comes a report that the huge accumulation of sawdust there known as the "Sawdust mountain" is on fire and that several hundred people on that side of the city have been smoked out of their homes. A high south wind is fanning the fire into a spectacular blaze, against which the city firemen can do little. Morris Fitzgerald, a farmer near Cheboygan, lost farm buildings worth $4,000.

Near Gladwin the home of Rev. Henry Wicko was burned Thursday, and several farm buildings were destroyed. From Standish comes a report that the village of La Roquette, in Presque Isle county, is burning.

From Escanaba in the upper peninsula it is reported that Foster City is again threatened with destruction and a special train with fire-fighting apparatus has been sent there from Escanaba. Near Monmouth several villages are threatened and trains are running from two to three hours late.

Duquoin, Ill., Oct. 16.—A prairie fire has been raging in this (Perry) county for more than 24 hours, and the efforts of farmers to check the flames have thus far availed little. Hundreds of acres, north, west and south of this place have been swept by the flames and many large barns and haystacks have been destroyed. Farmers went into the fields and dug furrows to check the flames. The loss will run into the thousands.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 16.—The mill and planing mill at Odanah, on the Bad River reservation, were shut down Thursday and every employee was ordered out to fight forest fires, being assisted by hundreds of Indians. Assistance was asked for from Ashland to fight fire endangering farmers near White River.

SUFFRAGISTS IN SESSION.

Fortieth Annual Convention is Opened at Buffalo, N. Y.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The fortieth annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association was called to order Thursday afternoon by the president, Rev. Anna Howard Shaw.

Mrs. Shaw called attention to the progress made by the workers for woman suffrage and predicted even more rapid advancement of the cause in the future. It was a day of welcome. Mayor J. N. Adam extended a hearty greeting to the delegates at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium at night. The letter of Mrs. Annie Calhoun Sanderson, the English suffragist organizer, advising American suffragists to "introduce into your organization more of the fire of revolt, more determination and more insistent demand that the woman may have the power and liberty to work for the world's moral regeneration," was given out.

"American suffragists do not countenance the methods in vogue in England." This opinion, voiced by one of the prominent delegates, reflects the general feeling among the suffragists here.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE DAILY.

New Paper is to Be Issued by Publishing Society.

Boston, Oct. 16.—The Christian Science Sentinel, issued Friday, announces the establishment by the Christian Science Publishing society of a new daily paper, to be known as the Christian Science Monitor. The announcement in part is as follows: "The current of human thought is setting in the direction of that which alone is real—the good that men do, not the evil. It will be the mission of the Monitor to publish the real news of the world in a clean, wholesome manner, devoid of all the sensational methods employed by so many newspapers. There will be no exploitation or illustration of vice and crime, but the aim of the editor will be to issue a paper which will be welcomed in every home where purity and refinement are cherished ideals."

Young Boy is Electrocuted.
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 16.—Emmett Murphy, 13 years old, was electrocuted late Thursday night at the top of a 150-foot electric light tower which he had climbed with a playmate in a spirit of mischief. He touched a live wire with his hand and received 2,500 volts.

Man and Wife Burned to Death.
Peoria, Ill., Oct. 16.—In a vain effort to save his wife, whose clothing had become ignited from an explosion of gasoline Thursday morning, Stefan Blaskovich of Canton received burns which caused his death. The woman's burns were so severe that she died half an hour before the husband.

Negro Lynched by Negroes.
Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 16.—A dispatch from Hernando, Miss., reports the lynching near that place of W. J. Jackson, a negro, by members of his own race. Jackson was discovered while attempting to steal a bale of cotton.

The Thing That Counts.
Every man feels instinctively that all the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.—Lowell.

HANDS REVEAL THE THOUGHTS.

Can Not Be Made to Conceal Truth, It Is Asserted.

A writer in an English weekly declares that if we want to know what the other person is thinking we must look at his or her hands. Even unpracticed lips can lie, as every one knows. Long practice in self-control will enable one to keep one's voice sweetly cordial when there is nothing but indifference or cold dislike behind it. The eyes can be made to shoot glances which are not at all a register for the emotions. But the hands, it is asserted, are utterly beyond the control of those to whom they belong. Even people who hardly gesticulate at all—and to keep the hands still is considered by the Anglo-Saxon a most essential part of good breeding—even these people are, it seems, constantly revealing themselves in little movements of the hands. The immortal Mulvaney has put it on record that a woman's truth or untruth can be discerned by the action of her hands. Of course, it takes a practiced reader to interpret what the hands are saying. It is not a case of "he who runs may read."

TEACHER WAS A LITTLE HASTY.

Jumped at Conclusions as to Cause of Tommy's Presence.

Tommy had been spanked by Miss Manners, his first-grade teacher, but his next teacher had not reached the point where she felt she could do justice to him in spite of all his naughtiness.

"Send him to me when you want him spanked," said Miss Manners one morning, after her colleague had related his many misdeeds.

About 11 o'clock Tommy appeared at Miss Manners' door. She dropped her book, grasped him firmly by the hand, led him to the dressingroom, turned him over her knee, and administered punishment.

When she had finished she said: "Now, Tommy, what have you to say?" "Please, miss, my teacher wants the reason," was the unexpected reply.—Success Magazine.

Act Singly.

Fear never by you shall be consistent in whatever variety of actions, so they each be honest and natural in their hour. For of one will, the actions will be harmonious, however unlike they seem. These varieties are lost sight of when seen at a little distance, at a little light of thought. The voyage of the best ship is a zigzag line of a hundred tacks. This is only microcosmic criticism. See the line from a sufficient distance, and it straightens itself to the average tendency. Your genuine action will explain itself and will explain your other genuine actions. Your conformity explains nothing. Act singly and what you have already done will justify you now.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Real Life in the Country.

Life, to the average man, means hard, anxious work, with disappointment at the end, whereas it ought to mean plenty of time for books and talk. There is something wrong about a system which condemns ninety-nine hundredths of the race to an existence as bare of intellectual activity and enjoyment as that of a horse and with the addled anxiety concerning the next month's rent. Is there no escape? Through years of toil I suspected that there might be such an escape. Now, having escaped, I am sure of it, so long as oatmeal is less than three cents a pound, so long as the fish bite and the cabbage grows, I shall keep out of the slavery of modern city existence, and live in God's sunshine.—Hubert.

Little Pitchers.

The angel-faced child of the house looked up indignantly at the middle-aged young lady guest:

"Miss Pussay," she roared, "I heard Cousin Nell and Miss Flipp talking about you this morning and Cousin Nell said you were wearing the willow for young Mr. Goodthing."

"What?" gasped Miss Pussay.

"And are you wearing pussy willows, Miss Pussay?" pursued the angel-faced child.

"What?" shrilled Miss Pussay.

"I thought maybe you were, because Miss Flipp said you were a cat."

Has Many Gowns.

The czar has as many crowns as a fashionable lady has hats. He is regarded by his people as a religious as well as a secular monarch, and therefore has crowns for every possible occasion. The Russian imperial crown is modeled after a patriarchal mitre. Five magnificent diamonds, resting on a huge glowing ruby, form the cross at the summit. Diamonds and pearls of utmost perfection surround this crown unrivaled among all others, and there is one supple in it which is said to be the finest stone of its kind ever mined.

Nothing Doing.

"Say, I hear somebody in this crowd said I was a liar," blustered the village bully, approaching a group of men he thought he knew. "Where's the guilty party?"

"I guess maybe it was me," quietly rejoined a lanky stranger, who measured full six feet and looked to be stronger than an ox, as he pulled off his coat and proceeded to roll up his sleeves.

"Oh, that's all right," continued the bully, as he hurriedly backed away. "Keep your clothes on; I didn't say I wasn't."

The Last Thing on the List.

When a man thinks his son isn't likely to be good for anything else, he generally tries to get him to study medicine.

OLD GERONIMO IN HIS WAR PAINT.

Lawton, Okla.—Although old Geronimo is fast falling in years caused by the awful hardships he experienced during the days that he held the west and southwest in terror prior to 1886, he can still boast a deer with great accuracy. He is now badly engaged, with many of the Apache bucks, toppling the young eagles of the Apache and quelling in the branding of several thousand yearlings. This work is being done while the Apache Indians are making their annual roundup of cattle on the range of the Ft. Sill military reservation. All cattle are being collected at the Rick Island tanks near Elgin, where the calves

Chief, George Parlington, who has charge of the Apache prisoners of war and their possessions, is overseeing the roundup. Working under him and assisting in the roundup are 100 Apache men and boys.

A complete invoice of everything belonging to the Indians is to be made. It is estimated that the Apache herd of cattle contains 10,000 heads, probably the largest single herd in Oklahoma. One of the interesting things in connection with the herd is the fact that there are very few dry cows. This year there was the largest "crop of calves" ever raised on the reservation.

Fine Language.

As a rule the educated native of West Africa, like his Indian brother, loves high-toned language. A clerk some time ago sent a report complaining that the carlines of the police at his station often mislaid; this is how he put it: "It is ridiculous to report that the dreams of the police, when pointed at the firmament, refuse to give explosive sound."—London Saturday Review.

It knows what vacation means. It is Edison who is responsible for the phrase now so popular: All things come to him who hustles while he waits. His energy and nervous force seem tireless, but if any one supposes Mr. Edison does not enjoy himself and never misses his vacation he would be wrong, for there is no happier man in the world than Thomas Edison when he is in his laboratory studying out some new invention. Instead of the overloaded book shelves of the electrical fads which are not as a hobby Mr. Edison's chief source of delight is his laboratory, which adjoins the house and where he spends much of his time. It is no uncommon thing for him to spend two or three days and nights in his laboratory without sleep and almost without food when he is wrapped up in some new device. Mr. Edison, however, has a magnificent library, which he knows thoroughly and which he puts to practical use. Naturally this home contains almost every electrical device known, for he is a man who puts into practice his own inventions. He differs, however, in one point—that he has not adopted a fully plan and none of the electrical fads which are not as a hobby Mr. Edison's chief source of delight is his laboratory, which adjoins the house and where he spends much of his time. It is no uncommon thing for him to spend two or three days and nights in his laboratory with-possible to get in a community as inhabited as the section in New York in which Mr. Edison resides. His large porch affords him many pleasant hours of pleasure and study.

Let There Be Truth Between Us.

The highest compact we can make with our fellow is, Let there be truth between us two forevermore. It is sublime to feel and say of another, I need never meet, or speak, or write to him; we need not reinforce ourselves or send tokens of remembrance; I rely on him as on myself; if he did thus or thus, I know it was right.—Emerson.

Ancient Cosmetics.

In Queen Anne's time the court beauties employed a popular remedy for making the shoulders and arms white and flabby skin firm. This consisted of the whites of four eggs with a grain or two of alum, the whole beat on quite thick. This mixture is then spread on the skin over night, carefully covered with old pieces of linen and removed in the morning with warm water and soap.

Russia's High Death Rate.

The death rate of Russia is the highest in Europe. It is 41 a 1,000 a year.

Champagne on the Congo.

In the Congo the extravagance of the average white man is astounding. Champagne is the invariable order of the day for men getting a few hundred dollars per year, and the official usually lands in Antwerp after three years with enough money for a spree, when he must sign and go back.—World's Work.

Nothing But the Truth.

"This world is but a fleeting show," remarked the man with the quotation habit. "Yes, that's right," rejoined the observing person, "and the majority of us find that all the good seats are occupied."

MONROE TO BUILD A $20,000 SEWER

Is Necessitated by Flow of Refuse from Gordon Milk Com.

Monroev, Wis., Oct. 16.—A new sewer, 5,700 feet long, was ordered in by the city council and a bond ordinance authorizing the issue of $20,000 worth of city bonds was passed at the last council meeting. The sewer is necessitated by the large flow of refuse from the Borden Condensed Milk company's plant in this city and it will cross in the neighborhood of $1,000. Half of it, which will run through low ground, will be built this fall while the ground is dry, thus saving con-

Forty-five farmers residing around Monticello, who held hail and cyclone insurance in a mutual company located at Waterloo, Wis., held a meeting and appointed a committee to go to Waterloo, Wis., to investigate the company's books. The action was taken as the result of an 8 per cent assessment on all policy holders. The farmers in this county will have to pay into the company from $24 to $100 a piece according to the amount of insurance they hold. The assessment is necessary because of heavy losses from hail in the northern part of the state this year. Three Green county policy holders received sums for losses and several others have filed claims which the company has not investigated.

There was $7,600 more in the county treasury on Oct. 1, than a year ago according to the books of County Treasurer George E. Thorpe who has prepared the accounts for the regular quarterly inspection by the county board finance committee who will go over the books tonight. The expenditures of the county from Nov. 1, last month to Oct. 1 were $136,362 while the receipts were $147,794. There was a balance of $10,195 on hand on Nov. 1, 1907.

AMERICAN FLEET ARRIVES AT JAPAN

STOPS OFF KIUSHU TO WITNESS THE NAVAL MANEUVERS.

GREAT RECEPTION PLANS

Battleships Will Enter Yokohama Harbor Saturday—Big Fleet of Chartered Vessels Meets the Visitors.

Tokyo, Japan, Oct. 16.—The American battleship fleet, somewhat in advance of its schedule, has been sighted by the Japanese war vessels sent to convey a friendly greeting. A wireless message reports that Admiral Sperry, his officers and the enlisted men were welcoming the maneuvers of the Japanese vessels off the island of Kinshu in southern Japan.

The Connecticut, the flagship of Admiral Sperry, had taken a position to one side and was witnessing the maneuvers. The warships are described as all being in splendid condition.

Fleet Enters Harbor Saturday. The fleet will make its official entry into Yokohama harbor Saturday morning. Messages of greeting have been sent out by wireless telegraphy.

The gunboat Yankton came into Yokohama harbor at ten o'clock Friday morning. A reception committee left Tokyo early Friday morning for Yokohama to meet and greet the Yankton.

Officials Learn Quickly. That the American ships were in close proximity to Yokohama was quickly circulated in official circles. No wireless messages had been received here from the flagship Connecticut. The first official greeting came from Admiral Sperry via Vice-Admiral Minoru Saito, minister of the navy.

Baron Saito extended to the approaching fleet a hearty welcome on behalf of the nation and said that all Japan is anxiously awaiting its arrival.

At last accounts the fleet was off the island of Shinko Ku.

Big Welcome Planned.

All Japan is in expectation of the arrival of the American warships. Yokohama and Tokyo in particular are given over to enthusiastic preparation. The decorations in these cities are an extensive and general as to be remarkable. All the Japanese newspapers of prominence are printing editions in English, and lengthy editorials assuring the American officers and sailors of a hearty welcome by the nation.

Every available vessel in the harbor of Yokohama has been chartered to convey excursionists to meet the warships. A large fleet ventured far out at sea to extend the first welcome.

THAW MAY GO TO PITTSBURG.

Matthewman Asylum Authorities Probably Will Obey Court Writ.

New York, Oct. 16.—It was announced here Thursday that Harry K. Thaw might go to Pittsburgh next Sunday morning or soon thereafter, to testify in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings now pending against him in that city. This information was given out after a conference had been held by Dr. Anna T. Baker, assistant superintendent of the Matthewman Hospital for the Criminal Insane, where Thaw is confined, and Col. Asa Bird Gardner, special deputy attorney general appointed to take charge of the Thaw case in behalf of the state.

A writ issued by the United States court in Pennsylvania, commanding Dr. Robert E. Lamb, superintendent of the Matthewman hospital, to produce Thaw in Pittsburgh, was served on Dr. Lamb Thursday.

Prison for "Jockey" Briggs. Cleveland, O., Oct. 16.—Joseph King, convicted of pocket picking and held in the county jail to await removal to the penitentiary, admits he is "Jockey" Briggs, known to the police of Chicago and other cities. He was tried in Chicago five years ago for the murder of Hans Peterson, but was acquitted on second trial.

Natural Curiosity.

Small Harold noticed that a stylish young man who was calling on his sister wore shoes that tapered to a point. "Say," queried the little fellow, "is your toes all cut off but one?"

Accidental Deaths in City.

There is an average of nearly two persons killed each day in New York city by falling from windows, down steps, into excavations or in some such manner.

SUBMARINES NOT IN PERIL

SENSATIONAL STORIES ABOUT RECENT TRIP DENIED.

Official Report Shows Little Vessels and Crews Were Never in Slightest Danger.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Sensational reports that the submarine flotilla on its recent trip from New York to Philadelphia, was in extreme danger, that the vessels were flooded, and that the men suffered from the effect of poisonous gases, are officially denied in a report of the run made public at the navy department Thursday. This report came from Lieut. Commander C. W. Logan, of the gunboat Scorpion, the parent ship of the flotilla.

The report says the voyage, consumed about 55 hours, of which 12 were spent at anchor at the Delaware breakwater, and about seven hours time was lost on account of fog. It further states there was no rough weather or high wind whatever; that the vessels and crews were never in the slightest danger; that nobody was forced to stay below; that the counting tower hatches were open throughout the trip, and the men moving around freely on deck; that no person showed any effects of poisonous gases at any time during the trip, and that none of the submarine was ever flooded with water in her interior.

A report from the commanding officer of the submarine Plunger regarding her recent trip between Newport and Philadelphia says that although rough weather was experienced throughout the voyage, the vessel proved herself seaworthy and her machinery functioned satisfactorily and without mishap. The total distance covered was 315 miles, at an average speed of 7.7 knots per hour.

DR. UGARTE IS RECALLED.

Minister from Honduras Announces His Transfer to Mexico.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The recall of Dr. Angel Ugarte, the minister from Honduras to the United States, was announced Thursday when the minister called on Secretary Root and said he had been relieved and would go to Mexico to represent his country there. Dr. Lazo Arriaga, a brother of a former Guatemalan minister to the United States, will succeed him. Arrangements are being made for an audience with the president, when Mr. Ugarte will present his letter of recall and his successor his credentials. Mr. Ugarte said the mission to Mexico had been offered him more than a month ago.

The retiring minister denied a report that his change of posts was due to a misunderstanding with Assistant Secretary Bacon, dating back to last summer when there was some disagreement between the state department and Honduras growing out of the action of the latter government in cancelling the exequaturs of two consular officers at Cuba because of their alleged friendliness to the revolutionists.

Military Surgeons Adjourn. Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 16.—The seven-month annual convention of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States came to an end Thursday after Washington. had been chosen as the next meeting place and the following officers elected: President, Rear Admiral Presley M. "You are living with the Gorms, I believe?" she said curiously. "For awhile."

"Oh! Boots says that he is expecting to take an apartment with you somewhere."

"What! Has Boots resigned?" "So he says. He told me that you had resigned. I did not understand that. I imagined you were here on leave until I heard about Neorgard & Co."

Philip Selwyn.

"Do you suppose I could have remained in the service?" he demanded. His voice was dry and almost accentless.

"Why not?" she returned, smiling. "You may answer that question more pleasantly than I can."

She usually avoided champagne, but she had to do something for herself now. As for him, he took what was offered without noticing what he took and grew whiter and whiter. But a fixed glow gradually appeared and remained on her cheeks. Courage, impatience, a sudden anger at the forced conditions, steadied her nerves.

"Will you please prove equal to the situation?" she said under her breath, but with a charming smile. "Do you know you are scowling? These people here are ready to laugh, and I'd much prefer that they tear us to rags on suspicion of our overfriendliness."

"Who is that fool woman who is monopolizing your partner?" "Rosamund Fane. She's doing it on purpose. You must try to smile now and then."

"My face is set with grinning," he said, "but I'll do what I can for you."

"Please include yourself too."

"Oh, I can stand that optional," he said. "I only meet the yellow set occasionally. I don't herd with them."

"How do you like them? What is your opinion of the yellow set? Here they sit all about you—the Phoenix Plotters, Mrs. Delmour-Carnes yonder, the Drymores, the Orchills, the Vendens, the Lawns of West-lawn," she paused, then deliberately, "and the Jack Ruthvins. I forgot, Allice, that you are now perfectly equipped to carry aloft the golden thread."

"Go on," she said, drawing a deep breath. She forced a smile and drew her glasses toward her. The straw-tied wine slopped over and frothed on the white skin of her arm.

"Well," she breathed, "this ghastly dinner is nearly ended."

He nodded pleasantly. "And Phil?" a bit tremulous.

"What?"

"Was it all my fault—I mean in the beginning? I've wanted to ask you that—to know your view of it. Was it?"

"No. It was mine—most of it."

"Not all—not half. We did not know how. That is the wretched explanation of it all."

"And we could never have learned. That's the rest of the answer. But the fault is not there."

"I know—better to hear the ill we have."

"No," she said, "I am not staying for the dance."

"Goodby," he said pleasantly. "I wish you better fortune for the future. I'm sorry I was rough."

He was not staying either. A dull excitement possessed him, resembling suspense, as though he were awaiting a denouement, as though there was yet some crisis to come.

After awhile he found himself in the ballroom.

The younger set was arriving. He recognized several youthful people, friends of Eileen Erroll, and, taking his bearings among these bright, fresh faces, amid this animated throng, constantly increased by the arrival of others, he started to find the hostess, now lost to sight in the breezy circle of silk and lace settling in from the stairs.

He heard names announced which meant nothing to him, which stirred no memory, names which sounded vaguely familiar, names which caused him to turn quickly, but seldom were the faces as familiar as the names.

He said to a girl behind whose chair he was standing: "All the younger brothers and sisters are coming here to confound me. I hear a Miss Link announced, but it turns out to be her younger sister."

"By the way, do you know my name?" she asked.

"No," he said frankly. "Do you know mine?"

"Of course I do. I listened breathlessly when somebody presented you wholesale at your sister's the other day. I'm Rosamund Fane. You might as well be instructed because you're to take me in at the Orchills' next Thursday night. I believe."

Looking up at a chinkless young man who had halted near her, she said, "George, this is Captain Selwyn."

Glaucing at Selwyn: "Have you met my husband? Oh, of course!"

To be continued.

"Yes, Boots respectable to bear them. Let us drop this in decency's name, Allice."

After a silence she began: "One more thing. I must know it, and I am going to ask you if I may. Shall I?"

He smiled cordially, and she laughed as though confiding a delightful bit of news to him.

"Do you regard me as sufficiently important to dislike me?"

"I do not—dislike you."

"Is it stronger than dislike, Phil?"

"Yes."

"Contempt?"

"No."

"What is it?"

"It is that—I have not yet—become—reconciled."

"To my—folly?"

"To mine."

She strove to laugh lightly and, failing, raised her glass to her lips again.

"Now you know," he said, pitching his tones still lower. "I am glad, after all, that we have had this plain understanding. I have never felt unkindly toward you, I can't. What you did I might have prevented had I known enough, but I cannot help it now, nor can you if you would."

"If I would," she repeated gayly, for the people opposite were staring.

"We are done for," he said, nodding carelessly to a servant to refill his glass, "and I abide by conditions because I chose to, not," he added contemptuously, "because a complacent law has lathered you to—the thing that has crawled up on your knees to have its ears rubbed."

The level insult to her husband stunned her. She sat there, upright, the white smile stamped on her stiffened lips, fingers tightening about the stem of her wineglass.

He began to toss bread crumbs to the scarlet fish, laughing to himself in an ugly way. "Why, Allice, only look at him! Look at his gold wristlets; listen to his snoring, his lip. Little girl—oh, little girl, what have you done to yourself, for you have done nothing to me, child, that can match it in sheer atrocity?"

Her color was long in returning. "Phil," she said unsteadily, "I don't think I can stand this."

"Yes, you can."

"I am too close to the wall. I'm—"

"Talk to Scott Link. Take him away from Rosamund Fane; that will tide you over. Or feed those fool fish; like that! Look how they rush and flap and spatter! That's amusing, isn't it—for people with the intellects of canaries? Will you please try to say something? Mrs. T. West is exhibiting the restless symptoms of a hen turkey at sundown, and we'll all go to roost in another minute. Don't shiver that way!"

"I can't control it. I will in a moment. Give me a chance. Talk to me, Phil."

"Certainly. The season has been unusually gay and the opera most stuporously brilliant. Stocks continue to fluctuate. Another odd woman was tossed and gored by a mad motor this morning. More time, Allice? With pleasure. Mrs. Vendramine has bought a third-rate castle in Wales. A man was found dead with a copy of the Tribune in his pocket, the verdict being in accordance with fact. The Panama canal!"

But it was over at last—a flurry of sweeping skirts, ranks of black and white in escort to the passage of the fluttering silken procession.

"Goodby," she said. "I am not staying for the dance."

"Goodby," he said pleasantly. "I wish you better fortune for the future. I'm sorry I was rough."

He was not staying either. A dull excitement possessed him, resembling suspense, as though he were awaiting a denouement, as though there was yet some crisis to come.
